Sam's history teacher was asking him some questions. However, none of his answers was correct. So the teacher began to ask him some very easy questions, hoping that he could give at least one correct answer.

“Sam, what is Waterloo? ”

“Waterloo? ” said the boy. “Oh, it is a kind of washing machine, I think.”

The teacher shook her head(摇头). “Sam, be serious, please. Now tell me the answer to a very, very easy question. Who was George Washington? ”

“Well, ” the answer came quickly, “he must be the man who used that washing machine.”

The teacher was a little angry, but she didn't give up. She thought and thought, and then she came up with the easiest question, “Who's the president of the United States now? ”

“Sorry, I don't know, ” Sam answered.

The teacher got very angry. She shouted, “Donald Trump! ”

Sam looked around and sat down.

“Stand up! ” cried the teacher. “I didn't tell you to sit down.”

Dear Tommy,

How are you going? I'm sorry I haven't written to you for so long! At Easter, Peter invited me to a costume(服装)party. I had a great time there. Do you know what happened at the party? Well, let me tell you about it.

Peter's party took place in his big house on Easter Day(复活节). His house was decorated(装饰)with a lot of ribbons and balloons. As soon as I arrived there, I saw many friends. They all looked beautiful. For the party, I wore a brown cap, a pair of blue jeans and brown shoes. I also carried my two toy guns with me. I looked just like a cowboy!

Peter also invited a popular singer to sing songs about Easter. While I was enjoying the songs, a woman dressed in a costume suddenly came in with a big cake and a basket of eggs. She walked around the house and gave everyone at the party an Easter egg. After that, we had a barbecue. I had lots of delicious food, such as chicken wings, meat and bread. The party was fun and amazing!

Yours,
Mike

I'm writing this article in China, far away from my home in the U. S. You might wonder what I do on Mother's Day. Well, I certainly call her to say “Happy Mother's Day”. I still remember the first time I forgot Mother's Day. When I finally figured it out, I asked, “Why does Mom get a special holiday? Why isn't there a Children's Day for us? ”

My mom explained, “Because every day is Children's Day! ”

I thought about all the time the love my mom gave me. I thought about the food she made, the toys she bought and the long hours she spent with me. There might not be a perfect mom, but there is Mom's love, which can fix anything. After that day, for 364 days, I was expecting(期待) the next Mother's Day.

That was the first year I forgot Mother's Day. It was also the last year I forgot. Are you considering what to do for your mom on Mother's Day? Common things are to write a message that thanks for the love she has given you, send her a card or buy her a gift. But the most important thing is—DON'T FORGET!

61. How does the writer celebrate Mother's Day this year?
- A. He calls his mom.

B. He sends his mom a card.

C. He visits his mom.

D. He buys her a gift.
62. Which word can take the place of(代替) the underlined word “explained” ?
- A. said

B. cried

C. added

D. laughed

63. Why did the writer begin to expect Mother's Day?
- A. Because he missed his mom far in the United States.

B. Because he wanted to spend more time with his mom.

C. Because he realized he had got much care from his mom.

D. Because he was afraid to forget Mother's Day again.

64. What is the purpose of the passage?
- A. To explain why there isn't a Children's Day.

B. To advise us not to forget to call our mothers.

C. To tell us to do common things for our mothers.

D. To remind us to remember the love Mom has given us.

65. Which is the best title for the passage?
- A. An Interesting Talk

B. An Important Day

C. An Expensive Gift

D. An Unforgettable Call

Henkel is surprised at how much people depend on pictures for their memories(记忆). People take pictures before dinner, during friends' birthday parties, and so on. They believe taking pictures will help them remember the moment. However, the opposite is true.

In Henkel's study, she took a group of students to a museum. She asked them to look at 15 exhibits carefully and then to photo 15 others. The next day, she tested the students' memory of the tour. She found the students remembered fewer details about the exhibits. Henkel explains that when people depend on their cameras, they pay less attention to the event. As a result, they often fail to remember their experiences well.

So taking pictures may prevent our brains from remembering things and places. But shouldn't looking over the pictures wake up our memories? Henkel says this is true. However, it happens only if we spend enough time doing it. "In order to remember, we have to review (回顾) the photos carefully," she says. Unfortunately (遗憾地), most people never spend the time looking over their digital pictures.
